Play store app free fire game wala

the easiest way to deploy an android app is through the google play store. is not the only method of distribution, but it is the easiest way to reach millions of potential users. posting your first app in the play store is not difficult, with some tips and pointers you can have your app ready for download in a moment. google has a $25 registration fee once you need to pay before you can charge an app. the starting point is the google play developer console. is the dedicated google dashboard for developers that allows you to manage your apps in the play store. google has a $25 registration fee once you need to pay before you can load an app. google says it encourages top quality products, i.e. less spam. If you don't like the idea, then help you look at apple and microsoft policies for their app stores. apple charge $99 a year. microsoft expenses between $12 and $99 a year, depending on the type of account. you also need to be in a supported country to distribute applications. countries such as the United States, the United Kingdom, Canada and Australia are on the approved list of googles, but countries like new zelanda and syngapore are not. Moreover, some of the recent additions to the European Union such as Romany, Slovak and Slovene do not do so on the list of googles. After signing and paying the registration fee, you must complete the details of your account, including the name of your developer – the name that is displayed on the google play store. Once all this is done you might need to wait a bit as officially it can take up to 48 hours for your google play record developer to be completely processed. at this point it is probably worth taking a look at the google play apps policy center and the android developers support center to avoid loading thethat is in violation of the terms and conditions of google play. all applications that violate terms and conditions will be suspended from the store and repeated repeatsmay cause termination of your developer account. It probably looks worse than it actually is. if you are creating original and well behaved applications, then you don't really need to worry. before loading your app on the store game you need to prepare some things. one of the questions you need to answer during the publishing process is about the maturity assessment of your google app has four levels of rating: all, low maturity, medium maturity and high maturity. google has a guide to help you evaluate the content of the google play app. Basically if your app includes references to alcohol, tobacco, drugs, gambling, or violence, you will need to bring one of the highest maturity ratings. applications with a slight violence of cartoons need to bring low grade rating to a minimum. the play store list is probably one of the most important elements to promote your app. You also need to look at the final size of your google app only allows 50mb applications or not to be published as a single apk file. all applications that exceed that size need to use apk android expansion api files. with it you can build your app so that you download up to an additional 4gb from google servers. in most devices, google play downloads extra data simultaneously to the app. in some cases, however, the application must download files from google play when it starts. the play store list is probably one of the most important elements to promote your app. a poor play store list will result in few downloads and probably negative comments. your play store list must be engaging, informative and friendly, to help attract users, google allows you to provide a variety of promotional graphics, videos and screenshots that will be displayed in the liston the Play Store. Since these charts are a key part of a Play Store success list, Google says that "you should consider having a professional product for you." Graphical functionality must be bold, vivid, fun and attractive. Thethe graphics you need are the screenshots. You must provide at least two screenshots of the phone. However for the best results you should upload 8 screenshots (the most allowed by Google). You should also upload images of the screen of your application running on a 7 inch tablet and on a 10 inch tablet. Google's instructions say that "for your application to show in the 'Project for Tablets' list in the Play Store, you need to upload at least one 7-inch screenshot and one 10-inch screenshot." Along with the screenshots you need to prepare a Hi-res icon (512 x 512), a feature graphics (1024 x 500) and Promo graphics (180 x 120). The last two are marked as optional, but you should really consider them as mandatory. Without a characteristic image your app cannot be present anywhere within Google Play. Example of a good image featured. Graphical functionality must be bold, vivid, fun and appealing. It should use colors that stand out on simple backgrounds and should promote your brand. It should not be heavy text and should not be overloaded with graphic details. Anything more than the name of the app and perhaps some descriptive words will be lost on smaller screens. Set the free price is permanent, you can not change it to pay once it has been published. The final part of the Play Store list is to set the price of your app and in which countries should be distributed. If the application is free then simply mark as free. However it is worth noting that the adjustment of the free price is permanent, it is not possible to change it to pay once it has been published. For paid apps you must set the price. You can set the price in USD and then let Googleprices for each of the local markets, or you can set prices individually for the different currencies. This last option gives you the flexibility to adjust local prices according to market conditions and exchange rates. Once you're happy with your Play Store List you canthe APK file and click the Public button. It takes a few hours for the app to appear. The publishing process is automatic and is not too long before your app becomes available for download. If you are loading your first Android app, the Android Authority team wants to wish you all success! Success!
